Letter to W. W. Alcott,

DeLand, Florida.

Dear Sir: Mr. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y., had two houses exactly alike, and painted them: one Devos lead-and-zinc; the other barytes-and-zinc. He paid same price for both paints.

He used six gallons of lead-and-zinc, 12 gallons barytes-and-zinc.

He paid $18 for painting lead-and-zinc, $36 for painting barytes-and-zinc.

The total cost of the lead-and-zinc job was $27; the total cost of the barytes-and-zinc job was $54.

He didn't know he was buying barytes; the dealer told him that paint was as good as Devos.

A fair example of how it generally comes out, when you buy "something just as good." Better go by the name: the name; and the name's Devos.

Yours truly

Mr. Hodgkins says there will be three times the amount of cane to grind in this section that there was last year. His cane mill is now working full time, and is turning out a high grade of syrup. Strangers and townspeople are made welcome at the syrup factory.

An amusing tale is told on a deacon of the Baptist church, who lives on the Boulevard, not over seven blocks from M. Davis'. On Sunday last this gentleman and his wife were under the impression that the day was Saturday, instead of Sunday. The deacon had been painting his house, and he got up bright and early Sunday morning and continued the job, putting on a very nice, clean coat of white on the front, next to the street. The lady of the house indulged in a general house-cleaning. Neighbors who saw them, and knowing their great respect for the Lord's Day, intimated that it was Sunday—but the deacon wouldn't take the hint, and continued with his work. At 10 o'clock, when the church bells rang, the deacon stated that someone must be dead—but continued to ply the paint brush. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, noticing clerks out walking, and after repeated hints from neighbors, the deacon tumbled, not from the ladder, but onto the fact that it was Sunday. The painting stopped forthwith.
